AN INTRODUCTION TO DDKOIN NEW CORE (AEPOS)

---

DDK is a platform that provide blockchain/fintech solutions which is supported by a growing community of users. Since 2015, DDK has conduct many research and development on the platform to improve the performance capacity and its ecosystem.

The DDK Platform is initially Hard-Fork from LISK DPOS (Delegated Proof of Stake) protocol which this is the latest protocol in blockchain to suit with the DDK existing community. The reason we choose to use DPOS algorithm is because it was a high democratic platform than the other consensus systems, more efficient, more secure and it is cost-effective due to the mining opportunity is depends on the number of votes for the miners from stakeholders.

In order to increase the capacity of the DDK Platform, AEPOS Genesis Block (DDK CORE 1.0) with 10 times faster Blockchain capacity than the original LISK protocol has been introduced to the platform. The DDK CORE 1.0 runs a transaction performance of 250 transactions per 10 seconds per block using real-time voting combined with a social system of reputation to achieve the consensus.

This serves the growing community of more than 300,000 users in Asia, Middle East, Europe and has helped the DDK community enjoy the economic opportunities in this revolutionary fintech solution.

DDK HALVING/ BLOCK REDUCTION

Definition

DDK halving/Block reduction refers to a process that reduces the issuance rate of the staking rewards from time to time. More precisely, halving is the periodical reduction of the block subsidy provided to miners/stakeholders. The halving process ensures that the Staking Rewards will follow its steady issuance rate until its maximum supply is eventually reached.

How to calculate DDK Block Halving

DDK Staking Rewards will experience its halving process on:

Staking Rewards	Months
10%	12 (1 Years)
8%	6
6%	6
4%	6
2%	Remaining years until the Staking Rewards allocation is finished

1 Block = 10 Second

1 minute = 6 block

1 Hour (60 minutes) = 360 block

1 Day (24 Hours) = 8640 blocks

For 1 Year (365 Days) = 3,156,000 block

Hence the 1st DDK Block Halving will be occur once the block reach 3,156,000 block.

WHAT IS AIRDROP?

What is Airdrop?

Airdrop refers to a procedure which a blockchain project distributes a free coin or tokens to the wallets of active members of the blockchain community. There are two ways creators distribute their tokens: by selecting recipients at random, or by publishing the event in airdrop-related bulletin boards or newsletters.

In DDK, these are rewards that were distributed to community members for a specific activity that carried out on the platform such as referring new stakeholders to the platform. Airdrop will be beneficial for cryptocurrency enthusiasts to gain free coin by supporting any crypto projects who release coins through an Airdrop rewards such as DDK project.

There are several reasons why a crypto project conducts an airdrop activity such as:

- To generate awareness about the crypto project
- To understanding the users or the community
- To rewarding or inspiring the loyalty users
- To wider the distribution of the tokens.

Airdrops are a pretty effective method of achieving wide and even distribution of the coins and it can also be fundamental to utility token projects like DDK, as they help them to offer access to a much wider audience. It helps these projects to gain new members, contributors and users which ultimately leads to a high level of engagement within the community.
